Buyer delegate obligations

1. Buyer delegates must be executives who have decision making authority on their companies supply chain requirements/management.

It will be made known to suppliers that are booked on to attend or any new prospective suppliers that you have confirmed your attendance at the forum.
3. On the basis that suppliers are expecting to meet/see you at the forum, if you cancel your place outside of 8 weeks before the forum, then there is no cancellation/penalty fee.
4. However, from 8 weeks up to 14 working days before the forum, if you cancel your place, there will be a fee of £2,000. This will cover the cost of any flights/travel arrangements we may have made on your behalf, plus hotel, food & beverages, forum and administration costs.
5. 14 working days before the forum, we start our process to set all the appointments/meetings between the attending Buyer and Supplier delegates. This is a very important time-consuming and detailed process, and should you cancel your place within this 14-day period then the cancellation fee will be £3,000.
6. Buyer delegates agree to attend the full duration of the forum and to participate and be present at all of the business, networking and social functions at the forum. If you do not show on the day/days of the forum or do not send a replacement delegate, then the fee will be £3,500.
7. Please note, we will accept replacement delegates providing they have a purchasing/procurement remit for your company. Please also note, once you have booked your place you are committing your company to send a delegate.
8. If you change your delegate and we have already booked your flight, then you must pay the cost of the airline to change the name or re-book the flight.
9. Buyer delegates also agree to be present for all scheduled appointments and to be on time as per the forum format/time schedule.
10. As a Buyer delegate you will host your own meeting desk in the main forum business area. Your meetings with Suppliers will be held at your desk and you must agree to be at your desk at the times specified in your forum business schedule.
11. Buyer delegates agree to provide us with a detailed company profile. This may be printed or included in an electronic version of our forum booklet.
12. Our Forums will host international delegates from multiple countries who all speak different languages so it is a compulsory requirement that each delegate must have a basic use of English language so that they can communicate with other delegates and the organisers/venue etc. DP Events Management will not allow delegates to attend if there are communication/language issues.
